Apollo Underway, 'Coasts' Toward Sunday Arrival

Lunar Explorers To Walk Surface

A STAFF REPORT
(One of a Series)

Astronauts Neil Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin Aldrin are adjusting course and resting "translunar" coast days Thursday and Friday.

The Apollo 11 launch Wednesday morning moved almost to the second at 8:32 a.m. CST time, many of the American people watching, more than a million at Cape Kennedy witnessing. Three thousand newsmen were there.

The translunar, moonlanding, moonwalk, transearth and re-entry days will end Thursday, July 24 with splashdown at 11:51 a.m. That is, if everything goes to specific plan.

Thursday and Friday are quiet ones for the three astronauts. Control of the mission went to Mission Control, Houston, after the launch reached earth orbit.

The command ship, to be piloted in moon orbit by Collins, has already docked with the lunar module section, freeing the craft from the second stage of the Saturn V.

A course adjustment about 8:20 p.m. Wednesday was the first of four, if necessary for proper "attitude" to enter lunar orbit.

Second and third course adjustments occur today and Friday, a fourth planned if needed.

Meanwhile the astronauts are taking nine and 10 hour rest or sleep periods before entering lunar orbit Saturday.

Sunday is the historic moon landing day, followed by Armstrong and Aldrin's moonwalk day Monday, emerging from the lunar module, collecting about 50 pounds of surface material from the Sea of Tranquility, televising their movements and returning to the orbiting command ship.

Moon orbit will be achieved about 12:25 p.m. Saturday, prior to preparation of the lunar module for the descent.

The busy days, the risky days are Sunday and Monday:

SUNDAY, LANDING DAY

6:32 a.m. Crew awakens.

9:20 a.m. Aldrin enters lunar craft for final checkout.

12:47 p.m. Aldrin and Armstrong separate lunar ship from command ship.

12:52 p.m. Television shows command ship and LM in formation.

1:12 p.m. Collins inspects exterior of LM for damage, if any.

2:11 p.m. LM astronauts fire descent engine, enter lower moon orbit.

3:07 p.m. LM engine brakes descending lunar orbit at 50,000 feet.

3:19 p.m. LM touches down on Sea of Tranquility site.

5:23 p.m. Armstrong and Aldrin eat first meal within LM at landing site.

6 to 10 p.m. Astronauts take four-hour rest period and crew eats snack.

MONDAY, MOONWALK DAY

1:02 a.m. Astronauts depressurize cabin, open LM hatch.

1:12 a.m. Armstrong begins descent of ladder to moon surface, allows TV camera view of bottom of ladder and surface.

1:21 a.m. Armstrong puts left foot on moon surface.

1:56 a.m. Armstrong and Aldrin, who follows down ladder, collect samples of surface material.

2:38 to 4:51 a.m. Astronauts take additional samples, make measurements, re-entering LM, tossing out outside moon suits and unneeded supplies, sealing LM hatch.

5:13 a.m. Astronauts eat, rest for almost five hours.

12:36 p.m. Astronauts fire LM engine for ascent.

1:02 p.m. Ascent half of LM enters intermediate lunar orbit.

1:53 p.m. LM maneuvers, aims for docking with command ship piloted by Collins.

4:32 p.m. LM and command ship dock, astronauts vacuuming LM interior before entering command ship.

8:25 p.m. LM ascent stage jettisons to lunar orbit.

10:57 p.m. Command ship fires engine, hurls ship out of lunar orbit into transearth path.

The rest, by comparison, should be easy. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week will be occupied with return routines now familiar to American space watchers.

It all depends on the critical time of the LM landing and leaving lunar orbit. No one has been there before.

Armstrong and Aldrin will plant an American flag, leave a small plaque with their signatures and that of President Nixon on the lunar surface.

The man, John Kennedy, who defined the national purpose of achieving the moon in this decade, is dead. The man, Lyndon Johnson, who spelled out the need after Sputnik, was beside President Nixon at Cape Kennedy at the launch.

Men by the name of Aldrin, Armstrong and Collins will make the need and goal possible. And the world, even with a Russian unmanned ship headed for the moon, is watching.

110-110-110

There is much concern about water in Texas these days, for the present and the future.

We can recall at no time in the past the unanimity for any project so far reaching, perhaps even grandiose. A $3.5 billion Texas proposal is on the amendment ballot August 5.

It is more than a West Texas project, while Gov. Preston Smith, is in office. It is more than a South Texas project inaugurated while John Connally, of Floresville, was in office. It is more than a Southeast Texas project, begun after Price Daniel, of Liberty, was in office. It is more than a Valley project, begun years after Allan Shivers, of Harlingen, was in office.

All these men, incumbent and former governors, are for the proposal.

Its scope is of a context so broad in dimension and time, it requires some checking to find parallels. None under one plan can be found in the Southwest. None under one plan is known in the country, nor for that matter in the modern world.

The only comparable project at a state level is that West Coast dynamo, California, which some decade or more ago approved a state bond vote of three quarters of a billion dollars for reservoirs and aquaducts to serve booming Southern California. It passed, but proved inadequate according to the struggle California is having with Arizona and New Mexico for access to additional water from the Colorado River.

We might reach back into Roman times to find a comparable concept of engineering, proposed at one time for continuous development over as many as 50 years. And that is the period the Texas water development project of some 70-80 reservoirs and dams would cover.

Such comprehensiveness has to be flexible as needs and even geography and climate change over half a century. But the forward view is easily justified by the obvious population growth in the Central Texas area between San Antonio, Houston and Ft. Worth-Dallas, not to mention development in cities between, east and west of some center point in the state and agricultural areas throughout tillable Texas.

Texans like to think big. Well, this is big, easily in proportions of the Astrodome concept of stadiums. Its effects are far reaching because Texas change is far reaching.

Its effect even would be felt in the Gulf, where flow of the Mississippi River would be affected by moving water westward to Texas. It is difficult for the individual, any individual, to grasp such magnitude.

But it is also difficult to imagine the next generation without enough drinking water, let alone enough water to bathe in, fight fires with, water lawns with (as is the case now in Houston), to irrigate crops with, to provide emergency reserves when a drought like our present one hit.

Such practical necessities are easily remembered in Texas, in Milam County of the early 1960's and the mid-1950's.

If it is hard to conceive of such broad need, remember the feeling when your well went dry or the river or stream which you lived by ebbed to a trickle or city water pressure allowed only a ration. Remember this as the sun blisters the grass and crops and reduces water tanks to a shell crater.

These are only a few of the personal considerations in the welter of evidence justifying a comprehensive water program for Texas.

'PENTHOUSE' OPENING AT COURTHOUSE

Third floor offices at the Milam County Courthouse will be open officially Monday with self-service elevator to the newly remodeled third floor space.

County Judge O. B. Hardee said offices for the Veterans Service officer, Social Security, Drivers License Bureau, County Auditor and County Treasurer will all be located on the Courthouse third floor beginning Monday.

Veterans Service, Social Security, and Drivers License Bureau were formerly officed in rented space at Main and Central Streets. County Auditor and County Treasurers former offices on the first floor of the courthouse have been converted to additional space for the County Clerk.

Veterans Service office will be open each Monday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Drivers License Bureau each Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Social Security each Tuesday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

GRASS FIRE MENACE

Grass fires continue as a menace in dry pastures, vacant lots and along right-of-ways. Two grass fires were reported Tuesday, one along the Southern Pacific tracks on W. 1st St. and a second on FM 485 where a car caught fire, igniting right-of-way and adjoining pasture.

Lt.-Gov. Barnes To Speak . . . .

St. Ed To Break Ground

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, 30, Sunday will make the keynote address at groundbreaking ceremonies of the new St. Edward Hospital at the new North Crockett site.

The public program begins 2 p.m. Sunday with the invocation by Rev. James E. Lafferty, pastor of Cameron First Baptist Church.

Congratulatory remarks will precede Lt. Gov. Barnes' address. Bishop Louis J. Reicher, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Austin, will speak on success of the drive and the hospital's future.

Bid for construction was awarded to Linbeck Construction Co., of Houston, lowest bidder at $1,155,500. Bids of four general contractors were opened last week in Houston at the headquarters of Sisters of Charity of Incarnate Word, administrators of the present St. Edward Hospital.

BIDS WERE:

Other bids were: R. R. Butler, Inc., of Bryan, $1,156,327; K. A. Sparks Construction, Hamilton, $1,180,114; and Waco Construction Co. Waco, $1,202,140.

Following the "Star Spangled Banner" by Yoe High School band, master of ceremonies Robert Ellett will welcome visitors and introduce guests and members of St. Edward Hospital Development Board, of which he is chairman.

Other congratulatory remarks will be given by Sister Mary Kostka, administrator of St. Edward Hospital; Cameron Mayor E. A. Perrin, and Dr. Clifford G. Swift, president of St. Edward Hospital medical staff.

Rev. John T. Geiser, pastor of St. Monica's Catholic Church, will give the closing prayer. Hostesses during the groundbreaking will be members of the St. Edward Hospital Auxiliary.

Yoe High School band will play the National anthem and other music under the baton of Bob R. Carney, director.

Lt.-Gov. Barnes will be appearing in Cameron for the second time in 2½ years. He returned from a speaking engagement last week in Japan before the International Association of Lions Clubs.

He will be in Austin later in the month to preside over a special session of the Texas Senate, called into special session July 28 with the Texas House to consider a biennial budget for the state.

YOUNGEST SPEAKER

Barnes was the youngest Texas House speaker in history. He has also been a representative of the U.S. Department of State to a Geneva meeting of European UN Economic Commission, and a representative to the NATO Civil Defense Committee Conference in Brussels, both during 1968.

He is the sixth Texan to serve both speaker of the Texas House and as Lieutenant governor, where he is serving his first term this biennium.

Barnes is a native of Comanche County, and holds honorary doctors of laws degrees from McMurray College and Texas Technological College. He was named of one of "Five Outstanding Young Texans" by the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1965.

The new St. Edward Hospital is scheduled to have modern facilities to house 49 beds. Estimates of the construction cost two years ago were $1 million, but with some economies, building costs caused lowest bids to exceed the original estimate.

Several acres of ground, already donated, will be the site of the structure, south of the present hospital and nunnery.

Construction is expected to take about a year.

The fund drive for $250,000 to complete the $1 million fund program still moves toward the goal. Last total contributions were about $235,000. Hill-Burton funds total $500,000 and another $250,000 was pledged by the Sisters' Order.

Officials expect a large crowd at the groundbreaking.

Heat Threatens Crops, Livestock

Outlook for grain sorghum production continued to drop as temperatures held over the 100 mark in central Texas and wind and rain Tuesday night caused some loss to matured grain.

County Agent J. D. Moore returned from a tour of Milam farms with the report that "it looks pretty discouraging for grain sorghum farmers." Moore said grain is burned in 'hot spots' where land is light or poor. He said prospects at mid-week were still good for cotton, but if the high temperatures were not relieved by more rains soon, the plants would shed the young fruit now developing.

Paradoxically, where the cotton farmers are hoping for more rain, grain sorghum producers say rains at this point will ruin what is left of their crop.

Robert Clark, manager of Milam Grain Co. said that although grain production is substantially less, the quality is satisfactory. Clark said, "On the basis of what we have received so far, the test weight of the grain is not a factor." Clark said that although grain in 'hot spots' had matured too quickly, mixed in with better quality, it had not affected the price.

SMALL LIVESTOCK

The effects of a long wave were also being felt by producers of small livestock.

Leo Fuchs of Ideal Hatchery and Breeding Farms said the prolonged heat had caused egg production to drop below consumer demand and forced the price of eggs to increase 7 cents per dozen in 15 days. Fuchs said weight gain was also off, but he had no reports of loss of animals. He said graded 'large' eggs were in very short supply because of the heat effects.

Gene Hillman of Cen-Tex Feeders Supply also reported a weight gain slow-down for hogs, but no animal losses.

TEMPERATURES

The City Water Department reported a .21 inch rain Tuesday night, first rain for Cameron since a .07 inch shower on June 24. Tuesday also marked the highest temperature for the year. Cameron had an official 104 degree high. Independent temperature readings in downtown Cameron were reported as high as 107.

Temperatures for the past week were:

July	Hi	Lo
9	100	74
10	102	74
11	100	74
12	99	74
13	101	77

Council Approves Paving; Moves To Enforce Parking

City Councilmen approved a paving policy and discussed ways of enforcing a new parking ordinance at a regular meeting Tuesday.

The five councilmen moved quickly through a fairly short agenda and in the closing minutes of the meeting doubled the price of cemetery lots.

Agenda included:

Acceptance of completed paving following second reading of paving ordinance.

Enforcement of two-hour parking. Blocks in the restricted parking zones will be marked and Cameron Police Department will hire parttime help to patrol the blocks.

Future paving policy. In order of recommendation, Cameron Airpark tiedown, intersections at 6th and 7th, O. J. Thomas streets. Austin from 12th to 13th, sections on 22nd, part of North Karnes, plus miscellaneous projects.

Urban renewal. City will place certificates of deposit in urban renewal fund to fulfill requirement for necessary grant-in-aid fund. Council will also budget additional $16,000 for the next three years to be added to the fund.

Survey Team Reports . . .

CISD Reviewing Plan

Recommendations for unitizing Cameron's public schools were presented to school trustees Thursday by a survey team from the Texas Education Agency.

Supt. D. R. Dodson emphasized that July 25 is the deadline for a decision by CISD to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act or face loss of federal funds and possible fines and jail terms for school trustees and superintendent.

Gilbert Conoley, project director of TEA in charge of civil rights, told board members and a small group of citizens that Cameron's freedom of choice plan has left an "identifiable Negro school" and is no longer acceptable under present civil rights laws.

A petition to maintain present status of the Cameron schools was presented by Gene Smitherman, local radio station owner.

The recommended plan would place grades 1 and 2, plus part of 3, at Ben Milam School; two sections of grade 3 and all 4 and 5 in Ada Henderson School; and grades 6,7, and 8 in the O. J. Thomas Junior High School. Grades 9 through 12 would be in Yoe High School.

The survey team recommended the dispersal of Negro teachers among the schools to balance the teacher ratio.

Conoley told the group that he and Harvey King, his fellow team member, are "consultants, not enforcers" and said he could only give an opinion of the recent school integration developments taking place in Texas and other states.

Conoley told board members that "freedom of choice is not a law — it is a technique — one of the guidelines offered to districts to integrate schools. If your freedom of choice plan had left no identifiable Negro school, you would be under the guidelines."

King added, "the law of the land applies equally to each group, it works both ways. They have to obey the law of the land too."

Both Negro and white children would benefit under the recommended plan, Conoley said, as both groups learned from each other. This was in reply to a question as to whether education would be benefited under the plan.

Dodson read from the Civil Rights Act the sections applying to school integration. He said Cameron schools were cited by HEW for failure to comply with the law in 27 instances.

Smitherman told the group that he did not acknowledge the HEW guidelines as "the law of the land."

Board member Hiliard Thomas answered that the school board is under federal control " like you (Smitherman) are under FCC control. This is not the place to sound off if you want to criticize the laws, the courts, the administration, or the government."

Duncum told how the board had been working hard for the past three years to move toward total integration. "Much progress has been made and we are better prepared to come into a fully integrated system," he said.

Duncum added, "We asked Conoley and Washington how much time can we buy by spending our money fighting. They said maybe six months. Do we wait six months and make the change in the middle of the school term? Do we want to hurt every child in school? This thing has put gray hairs in my head."

"Where are our rights going to stop?" Porter Young, local businessman, asked.

"That question is bothering a lot of people," Thomas replied. "In a democratic society we live by rules. The way to change those rules is to go to Washington and get your senators and representatives to change laws.

"We have to comply with the federal law. Temple spent $40,000 in lawyers' fees in a year and they are right back where they started," Thomas said. "I can't see spending that much to fight a losing battle."

Rev. James E. Lafferty, pastor of Cameron Baptist Church, said the petition stated that the signers (about 100) "feel now possibly is not the time to do anything. My whole contention is that we have come to the place where we accept guidelines and rules without ever saying no. Let's see what happens."

Duncum said, "That's what we have been doing."

Sales Tax Income Exceeds Estimates

Cameron channeled another $10,000 into the city's general fund with receipts from the January, February, March city sales tax. A check from the state comptroller for $10,746.29 assured that the city sales tax income would exceed the budgeted $35,000.

A four quarter total of sales tax receipts for Cameron was $45,896.76, however J. P. Fuller, city secretary, said only the last three quarters are included in the present October 1 through September 30 city budget. He said the September payment would probably bring the budget-year total to about $10,000 over the estimate.

Cameron voters approved the city sales tax in April, 1968. Payments, which are received by the city a full quarter after the taxed quarter, have been: September - $10,955.24, $11,543.81 - December, $12,651.42 - March, and $10,746.29 - June.

One-Minute Test For Diabetes Is Quick, Accurate

You may have diabetes and not even know it.

That's the theme of the "Why Wait?" campaign sponsored by the Cameron Noon Lions Club. Its aim is to get every citizen in the community in the high risk groups to come in and get a free, one-minute test for diabetes.

A Diabetes Detection Center will be open in Cameron August 3 from 1:30 to 5:30 at Methodist Fellowship Hall. Free tests will take but a minute and all area residents are invited to call at the Center that afternoon.

High risk groups include people past 40, overweight, those who have diabetic relatives, and women who have given birth to babies weighing nine pounds or more.

The new test for diabetes uses a drop of fingertip blood which is blotted onto a small patch of paper on a plastic strip. The paper has been treated with chemicals that are sensitive to sugar in the blood.

These chemicals cause the paper to turn colors in the presence of sugar. How much the color changes depends on how much sugar is in the blood. The color is matched against a chart to determine blood sugar level.

Medical research has found that blood sugar tests are more accurate indicators of diabetes than older sugar-in-urine tests.

Proposed Lake Seen As 'Threat' By Area Group

"A grave economic threat" is posed for Central Texas under the Texas Water Development Plan, according to a statement issued this week by the Bell-Milam Land and Water Rights Association.

The Cameron Reservoir, one of the new lakes proposed under the plan, will cover a total of 45,750 acres in the San Gabriel Valley.

The two-county organization is seeking deletion of the proposed dam from the Water Plan.

Passage of the second proposed constitutional amendment on the August 5 ballot will grant power to the Texas Water Developement to implement the Texas Water Plan, which was publicized last November.

Wilburn Beckhusen, chairman of the Bell-Milam Land and Water Rights Association, said, "This lake will be nearly four times as large as Belton Lake and about nine times as large as the new Stillhouse Hollow Reservoir at Belton. These lakes, however, were built in deep canyons and covered mainly ranch or waste land — the Cameron Reservoir will cover some of the very best land in the world."

Beckhusen said an extensive survey of the affected land owners "determined that the agriculture income alone, each year, amounts to over $4,509,000 in this lush valley.... the loss to Bell and Milam Counties could easily go to over $20 million per year."

Agriculture losses quoted in the association statement included 30,408 crop acres; 26,528 pecan trees; and 10,950 head of cattle. Losses to other livestock include hogs, chickens, sheep, and goats. Total monetary losses, according to the survey, will be $4,581,974.

"These losses are just too high a price to pay for a shallow lake that will contain thousands of acres of mud flats and will be of questionable value for recreational purposes," Beckhusen concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Charles and Patsy and Mr. and Mrs. Rex McCraven of Greenwoood, S. C. visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butler, Mrs. Polly Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Buel Rains.

Mrs. Lizzie Hughes has been staying in Rockdale with some sick relatives.

July 25 Meeting Set For Proposed Cameron Lake

A July 25 meeting in Temple will be held by Sen. Murray Watson and Howard Boswell, executive director of the Texas Water Development Board, to discuss questions about the proposed Cameron reservoir.

The proposed Cameron reservoir is just that — a proposed reservoir — and is classed as a "low priority dam" by spokesmen for the Texas Water Development Board.

Arthur Eatman, Water Development Board engineer at Austin, told The Herald Tuesday that the Cameron reservoir, if constructed, would not be built before 1990. It would be classed as a water supply project.

The Laneport and North San Gabriel reservoirs may serve as supply lakes in lieu of the Cameron reservoir, Eatman said. He emphasized that the Cameron reservoir is a "probability, not a certainty."

The Texas Water Development Board terms its Water Plan as a "flexible guide that retains freedom of choice as to future actions as long as possible."

Since the proposed reservoir is a water supply project, it would not be built by the U. S. Corps of Engineers, Eatman added. Flood control projects are built by the Corps of Engineers.

Eatman said that the size of proposed water supply lakes is not fixed in the Water Plan. The proposed reservoir near Cameron would have an earth fill dam and "would be a real good lake for recreation."

Rep. Dan Kubiak, speaking to Cameron Noon Lions Club on Monday, also emphasized that the proposed reservoir would not be started until after 1990.

Kubiak said that, while he agrees with the need for an overall water plan for the State, the proposed Water Plan can be improved.

ATTEND REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zarosky, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Zarosky, Bruce and Brent, attended the Kamenicky, Horelica and Gerick Reunion in Martinez, Texas, on Sunday.

Insurance Rates Can Triple For Teenage Drivers

COLLEGE STATION

Parents of teen-age drivers, especially boys, should be prepared to pay up to triple their regular rates for auto insurance.

The cost of an under 20-year-old boy who is the priciple driver of a second or third car in the family runs about three times the adult rate, even though the car is registered in the parent's name, according to an Extension home management specialist.

The rate is about double the adult cost if he merely drives the family car "with permission," Linda Jacobsen adds.

Records show that youthful drivers are more careful of the family car than their own, and during this period they can build up a good record which will be an advantage with later rates.

Girls aren't quite as expensive; a policy covering a 17-year-old girl as priciple driver costs about 50 percent more than the standard adult rate, going down to 10 percent excess at age 20. But surveys indicate that girls are getting more careless at the wheel, the Texas A&M University specialist says.

For boys, penalty premiums start to drop at age 20, decreasing annually to 10 percent at age 29. Miss Jacobsen adds that teenagers who have taken an accredited driver education course save about 10 percent.

CORRECTION

A list of Boy Scouts who participated in the July 4 weekend rest stop at City Park should have included the names of James Michael Mortimer, Allen Mortimer, and Jeffrey Mortimer.

Chapel Rites For Mrs. Blackmon

Mrs. Blanche Blackmon, 66, of Cameron, died Friday, July 11 in a Temple hospital. She was born February 18, 1903 in Louisiana.

Fear Of Snakes Can Cause Harm

Fear of snakes will keep many would-be campers at home this summer even though statistics show that in the United States more people are killed or seriously injured in their bathtubs than by snakebites, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

In the past 10 years in Texas, there have been just 31 deaths attributed to poisonous snakes. Snakebite deaths were most frequent among the young or old.

An unreasoning fear or ignorance may cause more harm than an actual snakebite. For example, a man who once trod on a rattler still wakes up screaming in the night. And a hunter, spiked by barbed wire, thought he had been bitten by a snake and very nearly died of shock.

True, these are extremes. But if you do regard the snake as a vicious and cunning creature with a deep-seated hatred of man, you are mistaken. Instead, it is timid and retiring. The earth-bound reptile will react to man as it would to any big and threatening creature, but it much prefers to slide unobtrusively away.

Poisonous snakes of the U. S. include the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth moccasin and coral snake. One of the most prevalent in Texas is the rattlesnake.

Should you encounter a rattler, the safest thing to do, usually, is to remain perfectly still or edge gingerly away. Don't run. You only excite the snake, making it more apt to strike in self-defense. on the other hand, don't assume that it will shake its rattles as a signal of attack or that it only strikes when coiled. A rattling tail indicates nervousness rather than a sign of aggression. And, a rattler may strike in any direction from any position.

In applying first aid for snakebite, make the victim lie down as soon as possible and apply a constricting bandage above the bite. The pulse in blood vessels below the bandage should not disappear, nor should the bandage produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes. If possible, apply ice packs to the bite and get the victim to a physician or hospital.

If a lengthy interval seems likely until antivenin can be given, make cuts cautiously through the skin into and just above the presumed venom deposit site, avoiding tendons, and apply suction.

Yanks Down Colts To Hold LL Title

After a 30 minute fifth-inning stretch while lights were out in Cameron, the Yankees and Colts continued to play on through a wind and sand storm battling it out for the Little League Championship Tuesday night. When the dust died down, the scoreboard read 7-2 and the Yanks had successfully defended their championship title of last year with their victory over the Colts.

The Yankees will now play in the district playoffs in Killeen. The playoffs will start on July 28.

Teams who win their league are entitled to pick up three players from the other teams to join their squad for the playoffs. Coaches N. E. Barron and Eugene Smitherman announced their selection of Colt players Gary Hornung, pitcher and first baseman, and Randy Sapp, pitcher and catcher. From the Cardinals they selected Gene Goeke, short stop and pitcher.

Tuesdays game climaxed this years Little League season. The Yankees won 1st with a 9-3 record; the Colts took second place with a 8-4 record, Cardinals third place with a 7-5 record; Indians 4th with a 5-7 record and Bears 5th with a 1-11 record.

YANKEES—COLTS

The Yankees wasted little time moving out in front Tuesday night when short stop Jafus White scored on a Colt error in the first inning. They added two more runs in the 3rd when thirdbaseman Bruce Zarosky knocked in Gene Kopriva and pitcher Jeff Smitherman.

With the Colts remaining scoreless, the Yanks moved further out in front when Smithermans triple knocked in Jafus White and Kopriva for their second runs of the game.

When the lights went out in the 5th inning, the players waited anxiously in their dugouts to continue play in this crucial game.

The rest gave both teams added zest as they faced wind and dust and held the other scoreless during the 5th inning.

In the top of the 7th Zarosky got a single and knocked in Smitherman and centerfielder Izzy Sanchez giving the Yankees a comfortable 7-0 lead.

The Colts managed to get only 5 men on base until the 6th inning. First baseman Mark Michalka got a single, pitcher Gary Hornung got on with a fielders choice and Ricky Kelley hit a single. Hornung and Kelley came in to score the two Colt runs on an overthrown ball to third. The Yankees threatened several more runs during the game but were thrown out or tagged out by Colt catcher Randy Sapp.

Smitherman gave up 2 hits, had 5 walks and 13 strikeouts. Mike White was behind the plate for the Yanks. Smitherman has a record of 100 strikeouts for the season.

Hornung gave up 6 hits, 4 walks and had 6 strikeouts.

Bruce Zarosky had 3 runs batted-in for the Yankees and Jeff Smitherman 2.

INDIANS—BEARS

The Bears started out with a mighty wallop Monday night but the Indians were equally determined to win their final game and were able to down the Bears 14-9.

Bear thirdbaseman Carl Burnett knocked a homerun in the first inning scoring Bobby Zavodny and the Bears were out front 2-0. But the lead was short lived as the Indians came back with runs from Dale Mueck, Dennis Hollas, Phillip McCall, pitcher Nehemiah Randall run.

Jeff Smitherman was winning pitcher and Mike White was behind the plate.

Roy Tindall scored the Bears run. The Bears were hampered with the absence of one of their starters, Carl Burnett, who had been hurt by wasps stings.

Kenneth Scott was on the mound for the Bears and Bryan Wilkenson was catcher.

WITNESS ASSEMBLY

YANKEES—BEARS

In Thursday nights Little League action the Yankees took a 10-1 win over the Bears.

Jafus White was leading scorer for the Yankees with three runs. John Alvarado, Joe Smitherman, Gene Kopriva, Izzy Sanchez, Mike White and Schmidt each scored pitcher Joey Mondrik, Ibra Henry and Gene Goeke scoring to even the count. In the second Bargas and Sapp scored again while the Cardinals were held scoreless. Mondrik scored in the 3rd for the Cardinals before the Colts managed a double play when Sapp tagged Edwin Marek at home plate and threw to Kelley at second to get Richard Raymond.

The Colts widened the 5-4 margin in the 4th when Bargas and Sapp came in to score again, the 3rd run for each player. The Cardinals stopped the Colts scoring threat in the 5th when Mondrik threw to second to get John Houston and then threw to Eddie Coker at first to nail John Bargas in the second double play of the game.

In the 5th, the Colt infield had two errors that got Gene Goeke and Ibra Henry on base. Two walks scored Goeke and Henry came in on another Colt error when Cardinal catcher Ricky Hollas a triple bringing the score to 14-8. Both teams remained scoreless in the 5th and the Bears picked up 1 run in the 6th.

COLTS—CARDINALS

The Colts and Cardinals played it out to a nip and tuck finish Friday at LL field with the Colts taking a 7-6 edge. The game left the Colts tied for first place with the Yankees and the Cardinals 3rd place in the league.

In the first inning Colt players Frank Bargas, catcher Randy Sapp and Ricky Kelley crossed home plate for 3 big tallies. However, the Cardinals came right back with Rangel, Matula, Donald Komar, and Jeff Simmons.

Burnett doubled in the third bringing in pitcher Kenneth Scott and catcher Brian Wilkenson. With Burnett and Zavodny on base, Richard Trubee got a hit knocking in the two runners and rounding the bases on errors narrowing the margin to 12-7. Burnett doubled in the 4th and the 6th innings both times bringing in Kenneth Scott for the Bears final tallies.

In the fourth Mike Mueck, catcher, knocked in brother Dale and Ronald Chamberlain when he got gel and Al Matula.

The Indians held the Bears scoreless in the 2nd while they were able to pick up 7 runs from Dale and Mike Mueck, Hollas, lip McCall, pitcher Nehemiah Ran-

Milam Shares In Oil Production

Texas the nation's leading oil producer, has yielded more than 21 billion barrels of oil during the past 79 years of recorded production, according to the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Milam County, which has had recorded production since 1921 has had a total crude oil output of 5,602,642 barrels up to the beginning of 1969. Milam County production in 1968 was 199,732 barrels at the rate of 546 barrels a day.

Texas has 36 counties scattered over the state which produced at the rate of 25,000 barrels or more per day. The three largest are: Andrews, 203,529 barrels per day; Ector, 172,654 barrels per day; and Crane, 128,839 barrels per day.

Gregg County is the only county that has produced more than two billion barrels of oil. Andrews, Ector and Rusk counties have produced more than one billion barrels of oil.

Texas oil production has meant a statewide distribution of income which currently averages about $3.4 billion a year. With 207 of crude oil, each section of the state is marked by several prolific fields. Texas' daily oil production is more than 1.1 million barrels.

"More investment is needed to find new oil fields to replace those now being depleted," says Corbin J. Robertson, Association president. "By the end of this century the demand for oil and gas will have doubled. Between now and 1980, some $260 billion will have to be spent to find enough energy to continue our present standard of living and guarantee national security. Clearly, the country today needs policies which will stimulate the drilling of more wells. Our reserves are shrinking."

Loan Approved For North Milam Water Supply Extension

A $126,500 subsequent water association loan has just been closed by Farmers Home Administration for the North Milam Water Supply Corporation extension.

All three of the present plants will be improved with the loan funds, plus the addition of one pressure plant with 20,000 gallon storage capacity.

The extension will serve Yarrellton, North Elm and Marek area and the area between Burlington and Rosebud, the area east of Burlington to Clarkson and New Clarkson, the area from Walker's Creek Church to Highway 77, for a total of 93 new customers and 35 miles of pipe.

The work order has already been issued and work will begin at once.

CAPITOL SOUVENIR — Melanie McClaren, Jane Burns and Patricia Stroup watch as Sen. Murray Watson autographs pictures following swearing in ceremonies as Texas Governor-for-a-Day at the State Capitol Saturday. The trio from Cameron were among hostesses at receptions honoring Sen. Watson and his family in the Governor's office. More than 3,000 from the 13th District registered during the day and about 1,300 attended the dinner that night.

Litter Mars Beauty

Litter is almost as bitter an enemy of conservation farmers and ranchmen as erosion, a local conservation leader said this week.

Wayne Mann, Disrict Conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, said that was why his office and Soil and Water Conservation Districts are glad to join with the Beautify Texas Council in helping focus public attention on the state-wide litter problem.

The Council recently asked all Texans to renew anti-litter efforts this summer.

"Too many people still litter our countryside with bottles, cans, and other trash," Mann stressed. "This not only mars the beauty of our rural lands, but when it collects on farm or grassland, it can also become a conservation problem."

Mann listed several ways litter is a conservation menace. First, it is a fire hazard. He pointed out that under certain conditions, bottles had been blamed with magnifying the sun's rays enoudh to start costly grass and forest fires.

Every year, countless wildlife and livestock are poisoned by litter thrown in pastures and fields. Others are starved or injured when they get their heads or feet caught in bottles, cans, and other trash.

The conservationist also said litter hinders farming and ranching operations; it can pollute ponds and streams, killing fish; some trash catches water, increasing mosquitoes, thus becoming a health problem; it can be a safety hazard; and it costs millions just to pick up every year. Besides that, he said, it's ugly.

"Conservation farmers and ranchmen do as much to help beautify Texas as anyone", Mann added.

"The least the rest of us can do is put our litter in a trash can instead of throwing it on the land to mar this beauty," he said.

PRACTICES SET FOR SUMMER TEEN MUSICAL

Organizational work has begun on a teenage presentation of the folk musical "Tell It Like It Is." The non-denominational religious musical is tentatively scheduled for staging in late August.

Phil Smith, minister of Music at the First Baptist Church, said the music particularly appeals to the modern young people and would "channel some of our Cameron teenage enthusiasm into something which I consider a very worthwhile project."

Practice sessions have been set for 3 p.m. each Sunday afternoon at the First Baptist Church. Smith said "I would like to make this undertaking a totally non-denominational thing, comprised of teenagers from all the churches of Cameron."

Smith said the music, written by Ralph Carmichael and Kurt Kaiser, has a message for young and old alike. Some of its selections are "Brother, Let Me Take Your Hand", God Is Real", and Pass It On".

Water For Texas . . .

The Plan: Boon Or Bane ?

What is the Texas Water Plan? Controversy over proposed constitutional amendment No. 2, which would allow financing of the Plan, is quickening as the August 5 voting day approaches.

Supporters of the Plan say Texas simply won't have enough water in the 1990-2000 decade and must begin now on a system to import water and build dams and reservoirs to conserve water.

Opponents see the Plan as an economic, financial, and ecological threat to the State.

The Texas Water Development Board says the Plan:

"Provides for 67 proposed or potential dams and reservoirs, having a total storage capacity of 52,123,900 acre-feet of water, transmission canals and pipelines, pumping stations and power facilities for the movement of 16 million to 17 million acre-feet of intrastate and interstate water annually to water-deficient areas in Texas and New Mexico to serve municipal, industrial, agricultural, and other beneficial requirements. The estimated cost of the Plan, in today's dollars, is $10 billion."

Among opponents to the Plan is the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club, a nationwide natural resources conservation organization.

The Club's analysis of the Texas Water Plan concludes that "the proposed Texas Water Plan should not be approved in its present form.

"Too many studies in which a knowledgeable water diversion and utilization program are based are just now getting underway," the report stated. "There are far too many unknowns."

FLEXIBLE PLAN

The Texas Water Development Board, in summarizing the Plan, said "it is recognized that if this Plan for water development, completed in 1968, is to provide for water to meet people's needs to the year 2020, it must be subjected to continuing study, refinement, and alteration as changing needs, priorities, and wishes of the people of the State may dictate.

"Thus it is a Plan that is flexible, retaining freedom of choice as to future actions as long as possible."

Voters will not be voting for the Plan on August 5. Amendment 2 will, generally speaking, grant to the Texas Water Development Board the powers and flexibility of operation necessary to develop sufficient water resources for present and future economic development of the state. (See full text of amendment in July 10 issue.)

The amendment would authorize the State to issue Water Development Bonds up to $3.5 billion, subject to the approval of a two-thirds majority of the legislature.

The bond issue is described as "staggering" by the Lone Star Chapter of the Sierra Club. "The amendment does away with all ceiling on the amount of interest which can be paid," the Club's report stated.

Next week: What impact would the Plan have on Texas environment and climate?

Test For Ripeness Of Honeydew Melon

When a honeydew melon is at its peak of sweetness and flavor, the rind is creamy-white and feels slightly tacky to touch.

The blossom end of ripe melon may yield slightly to pressure, says Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist, though abuse by shoppers could cause this.

A ripe honeydew has a faint pleasant fragrance and the flesh is delicate green, juicy and sweet with a fine-grained texture. She explains that melon is cut before it reaches maturity and it changes color from a slick whitishgreen to creamy-white.

Trash Fires Are Hazard To Farm

By J. D. Moore

Burn trash safely. Each year an average of 265 fires burn grassland, fences, barns and even farm homes, according to a survey released by Texas A&M Extension Service. Most of these fires are caused by careless burning of trash. Five steps to prevent trash fires are:

1. Use a fire-safe burner.
2. Place container on a spot cleaned to bare soil five feet around burner.
3. Pick a spot 50 feet from nearest building or wooded area.
4. Burn trash after 4 p.m., when wind is low.
5. Check fire often to be sure it is Dead Out.

Every year, about half of America's "large loss" fires occur in towns under 10,000 population. Farm fires account for nearly $200 million in property loss annually.

SMOKING AND MATCHES

The double-barreled hazard, smoking and matches, is the nations number oe cause of fires, however, carelessness and thoughtlessness by people are the source of this hazard.

Always be careful is the only safe rule to follow with smoking and matches as well as with everything you do.

FIRE LANES HELP

Farmers and stockmen are encouraged to "plow out" a fire lane along the border of their grass pastures. Especially those grass pastures exposed to railroad right - of - ways hiway and rural roads.

Machinery having a blade similar to a road maintainer is ideal for making a fire lane. Also, a one way plow or disc harrow can be used to construct an effective fire lane.

Our local firemen are to be congratulated for their faithful, continual efforts in fire fighting. Increased fire alarms during periods of dry, hot weather remind us of the increased fire hazards caused by the dry, hot weather. We have several costly grass fires in Milam County each year. Let's help prevent fires.

BEC Speakers To Discuss Need For Rural Water

Development of rural Texas will be the featured subject during the annual meeting of Bartlett Electric Cooperative, July 22. The session will start at 8 p.m. at the high school football field.

Featured speakers will be Neal Johnson, information director of Texas Electric Cooperatives in Austin and Jerry K. Johnson of Nacogdoches, president of the Texas Association of Rural Water Corporations.

The two speakers will emphasize the need for development of the rural water supply corporations in Texas and will discuss some of the major problems the systems face.

At the present time, the Texas Association of Rural Water Corporations is working for passage of Amendment 4 on the August 5 ballot that will exempt the non-profit systems from taxation and place on the same tax level of member owned systems operated by cities.

ASCS

By Alva E. Sanders

Farmers and ranchers with conservation practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program (APC) are reminded that the practices must meet specified standards before cost-share payments can be made.

When a faamer's application for cost-sharing is approved, the ASCS office informs hiim of the performance requirements. Farmers should be sure these requirements are being met as the conservation work progresses. Occasionally when performance is checked after completion, it is found that all specifications have not been met and regulations require they must be for the farmer to receive ACP cost-share

Under APC, the Federal Government shares the cost to conservation practices needed to assure in the public interest, the wise use, protection, and improvement of soil and water resources on the Nation's agricultural lands.

Performance for most farm practices under ACP, such as farm ponds, terracing, or land leveling, is checked by Soil Conservation Service technicians. The Agricultural Stablization and Conservation Service, which administers ACP, pays the SCS for this service.

The farmer certifies performance—that is, that the practice meets specifications—and a certain percentage of ACP practices are spot-checked each year. Sometimes it is found that specifications have been misunderstood. So all producers doing APC work should be sure they are meeting the requirements. Inquiries on specific ACP practices will be answered fully at the Milam ASCS County Office.

GRAIN INDUSTRY

In 1968, cash receipts for Texas grains accounted for almost one-fourth of the state's agricultural commodity sales. Cash receipts for grains were second to those for livestock and livestock products.

SCREWWORM SITUATION

During June, 58 screwworm cases were reported in the Southwestern States, a very marked decline from the 557 cases in June of last year. FARM SAFETY WEEK — County Judge O. B. Harden signs proclamation marking July 20-26 as Farm Safety Week. Looking on is Robert Jungmann, Milam County Farm Bureau president. A special safety campaign will be conducted by various local and state agricultural safety groups.

Local Groups Join Nation Observing Farm Safety Week

July 20-26 is Farm Safety Week and a nationwide campaign will emphasize prevention of accidents in rural areas.

Milam County Farm Bureau is coordinating activities within the county for the special farm safety campaign, according to Robert Jungmann, FB president.

The county farm leader said the accidental death rate for farm residents is steadily increasing. "If this trend is to be reversed and the needless suffering and losses substantially reduced," he said, "each of us must make a renewed effort."

Many of the present losses could be prevented with the use of safety tools such as seat belts, fire extinguishers, SMV emblems, and tractor roll - gards and crush resistant cabs, Jungmann added.

"Manage To Prevent Accidents" is the theme for the week, as farm accident prevention education programs are undertaken by these Texas organizations: Farm Bureau, Farm and Ranch Safety Council, Safety Association, Agri. dultural Extension Service, 4-H Clubs, FFA and FHA, Young Farmers and Young Homemakers.

Dramatic things are happening in the Texas livestock industry. Among them, explains Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist, is the shift in the slaughter of cattle and calves over the past few years.

You Don't Say

ANXIOUS

If you are referring to being impatiently desirous of something. Happily showing impatient or intense feeling or desire.

EAGER is correct for this meaning.

ANXIOUS means troubled in mind; worried, distressed. NEVER use anxious in the sense of being eager.

How such corruptions as the above start, no one knows—but do refrain from using them. To careful speakers, such errors are actually offensive.

Gone is the provincial, city or country, when Armstrong and Aldrin touch down. Arrived is earth, in toto, in tact, when three of three billion, freest by heritage and most disciplined by science, stob moon with our flag in earth's name.

Three, three hundred thousand or three billion, we claim our moon this weekend. Barring catastrophe, earth is more ours, the moon achieved for its understanding.

Ah, how the Russkies thought they were exempt
And held Western culture in scolding contempt,
But now admits Pravda what long had been hidden:
That the fair Soviet land with pollution is ridden.
So, boys, join the club, with other despoilers,
With smovgers, DDT-ers and sandy-beach oilers.
No doubt Russians thought the Soviet immensity
And Siberia's vast population non - density
And the Ob flowing free and the long Yenesei
And the forests from Minsk on to Chelyabinsk
Gave Russia ablution from taint of pollution.
But alack and alas! It has come to pass,
Moscow's trucks and buses, they send up a smog
And the chemical plants hydrocarbon a fog
And vasty Lake Baikal is slightly effluent
(Not like Lake Erie, all pickled and ruint!)
And the Caspian Sea is beginning to burgeon
With gook unfriendly to caviar's sturgeon,
And the cities (how American!) are not making haste,
As committees slow-wrestle with disposable waste.
So Izvestia laments and officials crack down.
And mankind again eyes its soot-tarnished crown.
Ah, what's to be done? Shall we not work together

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

As I understand it from reading the newspapers for the past two or three weeks, everybody is now living under a new law called "Truth In Lending," which means stores, banks, lending companies and such like have to tell you how much actual interest you're paying if you borrow money or buy something on credit.

Although it's not the interest rate that bothers most people buying a car on credit, it's mostly how much per month the payments are and whether or not they or the car will wear out before thay reach the last one, I'm sure this is a good law, but it's far enough.

What I mean is, I hope some smart-aleck in Washington doesn't come up now with a "Truth in Borrowing" bill.

When a man is borrowing money for an honest purpose, truth should be told generally but not squeezed to death.

Take the case of a farmer I knew years ago. Every year he'd go into the bank to mortgage his money to make another crop on.

"Let's see, those mules are six years old, aren't they?" the banker asked him the first time he went in.

"Yes sir. Sure are," the farmer answered truthfully, and he got the loan.

Next year it was the same.

"Those mules still six years old, aren't they?"

"Yes sir."

For ten years the same procedure took place, the mules stayed six, the farmer always paid up, the banker was happy, the bank examiner was none the wiser, the farmer finally got on his feet and today owns his farm and a modern tractor, both debt-free, but Truth in Borrowing would have ruined him.

Something similar happens even today. How many used car ads have you seen saying this car has 24,000 actual miles? Everybody understands there's a difference between speedometer miles and actually miles, just as there's a difference between lying and campaign-promising, which is in the same category with telling a woman with knobby knees she looks good in a miniskirt.

Miles on a car or years on a mule are no proper concern of Washington, so long as everybody pays up on time.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Stiff Resistance Forms On Auto Insurance Hike

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Stiff resistance is forming to a proposed 11.4 per cent average private auto insurance rate hike.

Gov. Preston Smith promised a "full scale" investigation of soaring rates after State Insurance Board rate experts recommended the new increase.

Smith said the proposal "borders on catastrophe" and the car insurance situation "has become intolerable for many of our citizens." Governor announced an early meeting with insurance company executives and said he is considering appointment of a select panel of citizens outside the industry to make a thorough study and recommendations.

Board rate - authorities blame the increase on the number and cost of auto accidents. Labor cost for repairs, in particular, was emphasized.

Recommendations and testimony at the public hearing will be reviewed by the board before August 1. New rates will take effect with policies written or renewed on or after September 1.

Liability rates, under staff recommendation, would go up 5.5 per cent. (Bodily injury coverage actually would be reduced 3.7 per cent, but property damage would increase 21.4 per cent).

Collision insurance would increase 17.5 per cent.

Comprehensive coverage for physical damage would climb 24.9 per cent.

Commercial vehicles, with better safety records, would get lower rates. Figuring all classes of vehicles, the statewide average increase would be 9.2 per cent under staff recommendations.

Insurance company spokemen urged even higher increases, but AFL-CIO spokesmen argued for reduction, rather than raise.

"An automobile is an absolute necessity in our current society, and, I, for one, do not intend to sit idly by and see it priced into a position of being a luxury," said Smith.

TREASURE HUNT RUCKUS

A story which began in 1553 still is one of the state's headline items.

Lawsuits, sharp exchanges between state officials and threatened impeachment proceedings raged over what should be done with the treasure recovered from a Spanish galleon which sank in a storm off Padre Island more than 400 years ago.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler incurred the ire of a legislative committee earlier when he declined to cooperate with members probing his agreement with the Gary, Ind., firm of Platoro, Inc. Sadler's proposal was to salvage artifacts from the sunken ship and divide the loot 50-50 with the state.

Sadler announced that he had recovered all the articles taken from the galleon by Platoro and has them in his custody. He got a court order temporarily restraining Platoro from further salvage operations which firm, according to Secretary of State Martin Dies, engaged in the Padre treasure hunt without the proper state permit.

District judge at Corpus Christi postponed a hearing on disposition of the treasure until after the special legislative session. Meanwhile, he named a committee to determine if the Gary salvage firm still has some of the treasure and, if so, how to get it back. Serving on the committee are Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin, and Ed Harte, Corpus Christi publisher.

State Rep. Jake Johnson of San Antonio threatened impeachment of Sadler over his contract with Platoro.

DEER HUNTING LONGER

Longest deer hunting season yet has been set by the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Season will open on the morning of November 8 and continue until sunset on Januray 1, 1970.

Commission agreed to reduce the white wing dove season drastically. Shooting will be permitted only on one weekend in September, since experts reported the dove population down 20 per cent from last year.

COURTS SPEAK

A patient can still collect on a hospital insurance policy, even if most of his expenses are paid by Medicare, says the State Supreme Court in agreeing with the that antibiotic given the claves appellate court in an Abilene case.

A serum company is liable for damages in the death of 25 registered claves in Ochiltree County, says the Supreme Court in backing a trial court. Court found for a respiratory ailment was unfit for use.

A Waco seed company's failure to protest its tax assessment before the board of equalization did not deprive it of the right to challenge the valuation in court, the High Court said in a decision upholding the Waco Court of Civil Appeals but reversing the trial court.

Supreme Court has agreed to hear an application by the El Paso Times on a libel case by a former UT-EL Paso professor. Dr. Richard Texler claims he was libeled by a letter published in the Times. Trial court found no actual malice or damages, but the appeals court said the jury got the wrong definition of actual malice and ordered a retrial, which the Times appealed.

Court upheld an appeals decision that Deaf Smith County landowner Vada White and others would have to start over in a land condemnation suit involving Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America.

Dallas man, convicted of slaying a school girl, got a new trial by order of the Court of Criminal Appeals, because his lawyers were not given an advance list of prospective jurors.

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed conviction of a Galveston man for possessing narcotics paraphernalia because the trial court permitted testimony on information given the police by a drug buyer.

APPOINTMENTS

Smith is setting up a 27-member Governor's Health Advisory Committee to work with the Texas State Comprehensive Health Planning Agency and has arranged a two-day orientation program.

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter.

But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

Amendments 3, 4 Seek Salary Change, Tax Relief

Editor's note: The Herald continues analyses of nine proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on August 5. The Texas Legislative Council prepares the analyses.

AMENDMENT NO. 3-S.J.R. No.31

Authorizing the legislature to set the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives at not more than one-half of the salary of the governor and to set the salary of other members of the legislature at not more than the salary of a district judge.)

This proposed amendment to Article III, Section 24, of the Texas Constitution makes changes in legislative salaries, per diem, and travel pay. It permits the legislature to set its own salary and the salary of the speaker of the house and the lieutenant governor within certain limits. The limit for the speaker and the lieutenant governor is one-half of the salary of the governor, while the limit for the members of the legislature is the salary a district judge is paid from state funds. The amendment also removes the 120-day limit on payment of the $12 per diem pay during the 140-day regular session. The amendment repeals provisions allowing travel pay at the rate of $2.50 per 25 miles traveled to and from Austin for the session.

BACKGROUND

Before the Constitution of 1876 was adopted, earlier constitutions permitted the legislature, by law, to increase or diminish the compensation of members, except that no increase could become effective during the session at which the increase was made. The original Constitution of 1876 limited the per diem allowance to $5 and to further discourage long sessions, it provided that this allowance should be reduced to $2 after the first 60 days.

In 1930 an amendment was adopted which increased the per diem allowance to $10 for the first 120 days of a session, and a reduced allowance of $5 for any succeeding days beyond that period. Another amendment in 1954 increased the per diem allowance to $25 for the first 120 days and no per diem allowance thereafter, should the session extend beyond the 120-maximum.

The innovation of the annual salary was adopted by the electorate in 1960. In the latest amendment to Article III, Section 24, an annual salary not to exceed $4,800, plus per diem of $12 for 120 days of the regular session and 30 days of each special session, was authorized. A proposed amendment to increase the per diem to $20 and extend payment over the full 140 days allowed for a regular session and the full 30 days of a special session was defeated by the voters in 1965. A proposed amendment to increase the salary of a legislator from $4,800 to $8,400 per year, remove the 120-day limit on payment of the per diem allowance, and allow travel pay for one round-trip home from Austin per month was defeated by the voters in November, 1968.

ARGUMENTS

For: 1. The legislator can no longer be considered a part-time official. The increasing complexity of the problems facing state government and the increasing amount of time spent on standing and special interim committees meeting between sessions leave him little time to devote to his private business or profession. The $4,800 annual salary now provided under the constitution is carcely adequate to meet present-day costs of living.

2. The setting of a specific salary in the constitution requires a popular vote each time the legislature needs a pay increase. Calling a special election and printing ballots and election notices is costly. The fact that a legislator must face the voters for reelection to office provides an adequate check on the legislators in voting to raise their own pay.

3. The present limitation to a 120-day period for payment of the small $12 per diem allowance, even though expenses continue throughout the full session of 140 days, places an additional hardship on legislators. In view of personal living expenses, the imposition of a time limit on a $12 per diem allowance is unrealistic. It is unlikely that any legislator would attempt to extend the length of the session and stay away from his home in order to collect an allowance of $12 per day.

Against: 1. The proposed amendment allows the legislature to raise legislative salaries to not more than the state salary of a district judge, and to raise the pay of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives to not more than one-half of the salary of the governor. However, since the salary of the governor or a district judge may be increased at any time by the legislature, the removal of the dollar ceiling on the presiding officers' and members' salaries would in effect, make any salary possible.

2. A substantial pay increase and a longer period during which the per diem allowance would be paid would add still further to the expenses of state government at a time when state finances are already overburdedened in meeting the constantly expanding needs of a growing population.

3. A maximum legislative salary equivalent to that of a district judge, who works the year round, is excessive for what might be termed the part-time job of a legislator, and the legislative salary which would become effective is far in excess of the full-time salary drawn by the average Texan.

AMENDMENT NO. 4-S.J.R. NO.6

(Exempting nonprofit water supply corporations from ad valorem taxation.)

This proposed amendment amends Article VIII, Section 2, of the Texas Constitution to exempt nonprofit water supply corporations. The amendment authorizes the legislature to exempt the property of water supply corporations if the sale of water is the corporation's only authorized purpose and if it is a nonprofit corporation. The amendment allows exemption of the property only if the property is reasonably necessary for and used in the acquisition, storage, transportation, and sale of water. The exemptions under this section apply to all ad valorem taxes, state and local.

BACKGROUND

The constitutional provision as originally adopted in 1876 authorized the legislature to exempt from ad valorem taxation (1) public property used for public purposes, (2) actual places of religious worship, (3) places of burial not held for profit, (4) buildings and furnishings used exclusively for educational purposes, and (5) institutions of purely public charity.

The Texas Supreme Court has strictly construed the section, and the exemption power of the legislature, by striking down laws exempting property not covered by the constitutional provision and denying claims by organizations that they were purely public charities.

Article VIII, Section 2, has been amended twice since its adoption. The first amendment, in 1907 added endowment funds of public institutions. The second amendment, in 1913, added dwelling places of ministers, and a class of organizations which included YMCA's and YWCA's. This amendment was passed in response to a Texas Supreme Court holding that a statute exempting YMCA's and YWCA's went beyond the limits set by the constitution.

ARGUMENTS

For: 1. Nonprofit water supply corporations perform a vital function for many parts of the state that would not otherwise have adequate water supplies. The amendment would encourage the formation of the corporations and the development of water resources.

2. The corporations to be exempted are nonprofit and perform a governmental functon; therefore, their property should be like public property and exempt from taxation.

Againt: 1. There are many privately owned water supply corporations which are run for profit. These corporations would be put at a competitive disadvantage if the nonprofit corporations were relieved from payment of ad valorem taxes.

2. With rising governmental costs and increasing difficulty in finding sources of revenue, any reduction in the present tax base is unwise.

Cameron, Texas

The Potters are expecting a very important phone call.

In the years ahead, you'll be able to preset your telephone to transfer calls to the number where you're visiting.

Electronic switching — using a sophisticated computer system — will make this and many other new services possible.

For example, your phone will have a memory. By dialing just two digits of a frequently called number, you'll activate that memory, then the phone will dial the remaining digits automatically.

Electronic switching is fact, not fiction. It's part of our program to plan today for tomorrow's communications needs.

We may be the only phone company in town, but we try not to act like it.

A Closer Walk With God Will Lead You Right Straight to Church

Is It Clear to YOU?
HOLY BIBLE
Do you find it hard to read? Is its language too out of date? Have you imagined it contradicts its self? Are you of the opinion God's love for us is a paradox? Do you think if God really loved us He would let us be sick, experience pain and suffer death? Is the Bible actually hard for you to understand? If your answer is "yes," then you should enroll in Sunday School, start going to church regularly and join the band of honest, serious seekers after God's own will in your life; the true interpretation of His word. To the believer the Bible makes sense, it is easy to understand and in it there are no contradictions. It is really the Book of Life.
You In The Church The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

"Oh, Come, Let Us Sing Unto The Lord,"—For There Is No Variableness In God's Cause Nor In His Justice . . . Then Come, Let Us Attend Our Church Or Synagogue This Week . . . This Word Of Invitation From Sponsors Of This Spiritual Values Page.
